What is Hybrid Laminate Flooring?

Hybrid laminate flooring, also known as rigid core flooring, features an innovative black core HDF (high-density fiberboard) that enhances its water resistance. This unique composition combines the best qualities of laminate and real wood flooring, offering a robust and versatile solution for various environments.

Construction and Composition

This flooring is constructed from several layers, each contributing to its exceptional performance

Core Layer

At its core is the high-density fiberboard (HDF), a durable and stable material infused with resins, carbon fiber, and other components to enhance its moisture and humidity resistance. The HDF core ensures the flooring's stability and longevity.

Protective Layers

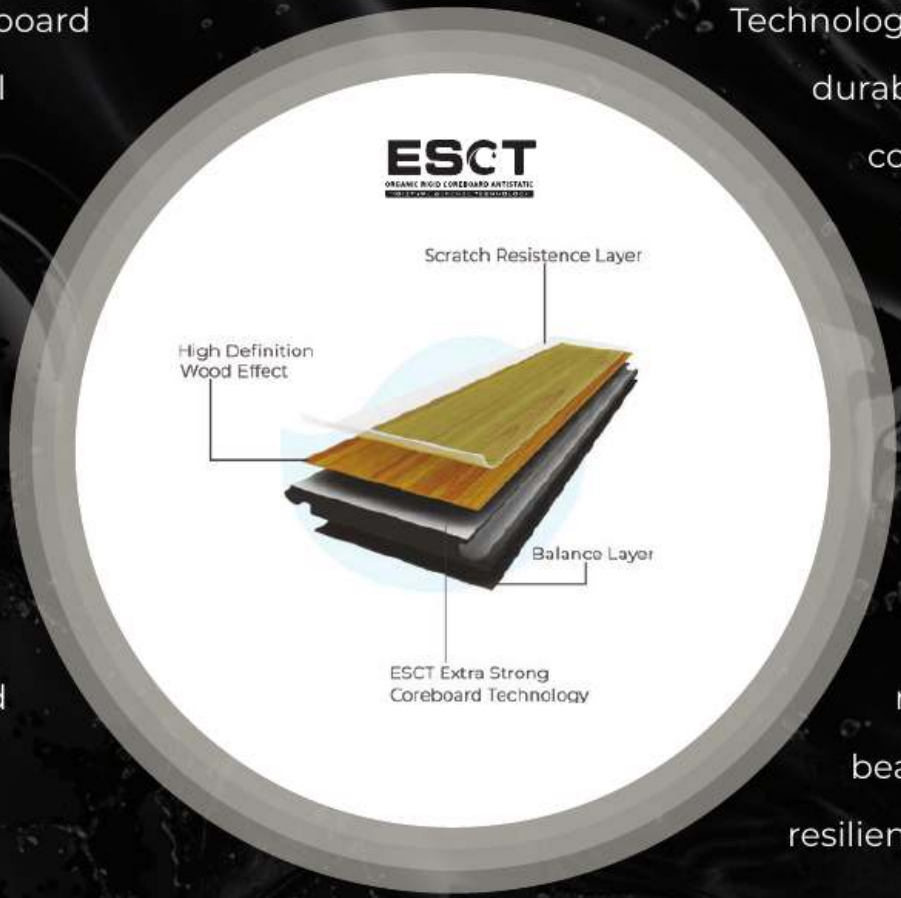

This decor layer is protected by an AC5 category scratch-proof top layer and a wear layer, both of which shield the flooring from scratches, stains, and other damage

Ideal Applications

Hybrid laminate flooring with a black core HDF and water-resistant features are ideal for high-traffic areas such as living rooms, bedrooms, kitchens, bathrooms, and basements, where moisture and spills are common.

ESCT: A Game-Changer in the World of Wooden Flooring

ESCT (Extra Strong Coreboard Technology) revolutionizes wooden flooring with exceptional durability and performance. It features a high-density core board made of tightly compressed fibers, creating a dense and sturdy foundation. An innovative moisture defense layer provides extra protection, preventing water from seeping into the core and causing warping or swelling. This makes ESCT ideal for high-traffic areas such as living rooms, bedrooms, kitchens, bathrooms, and basements. Combining strength and moisture resistance, ESCT ensures long-lasting, beautiful flooring suitable for any environment requiring resilience and elegance.

Superior Durability with Carbon Fiber Core

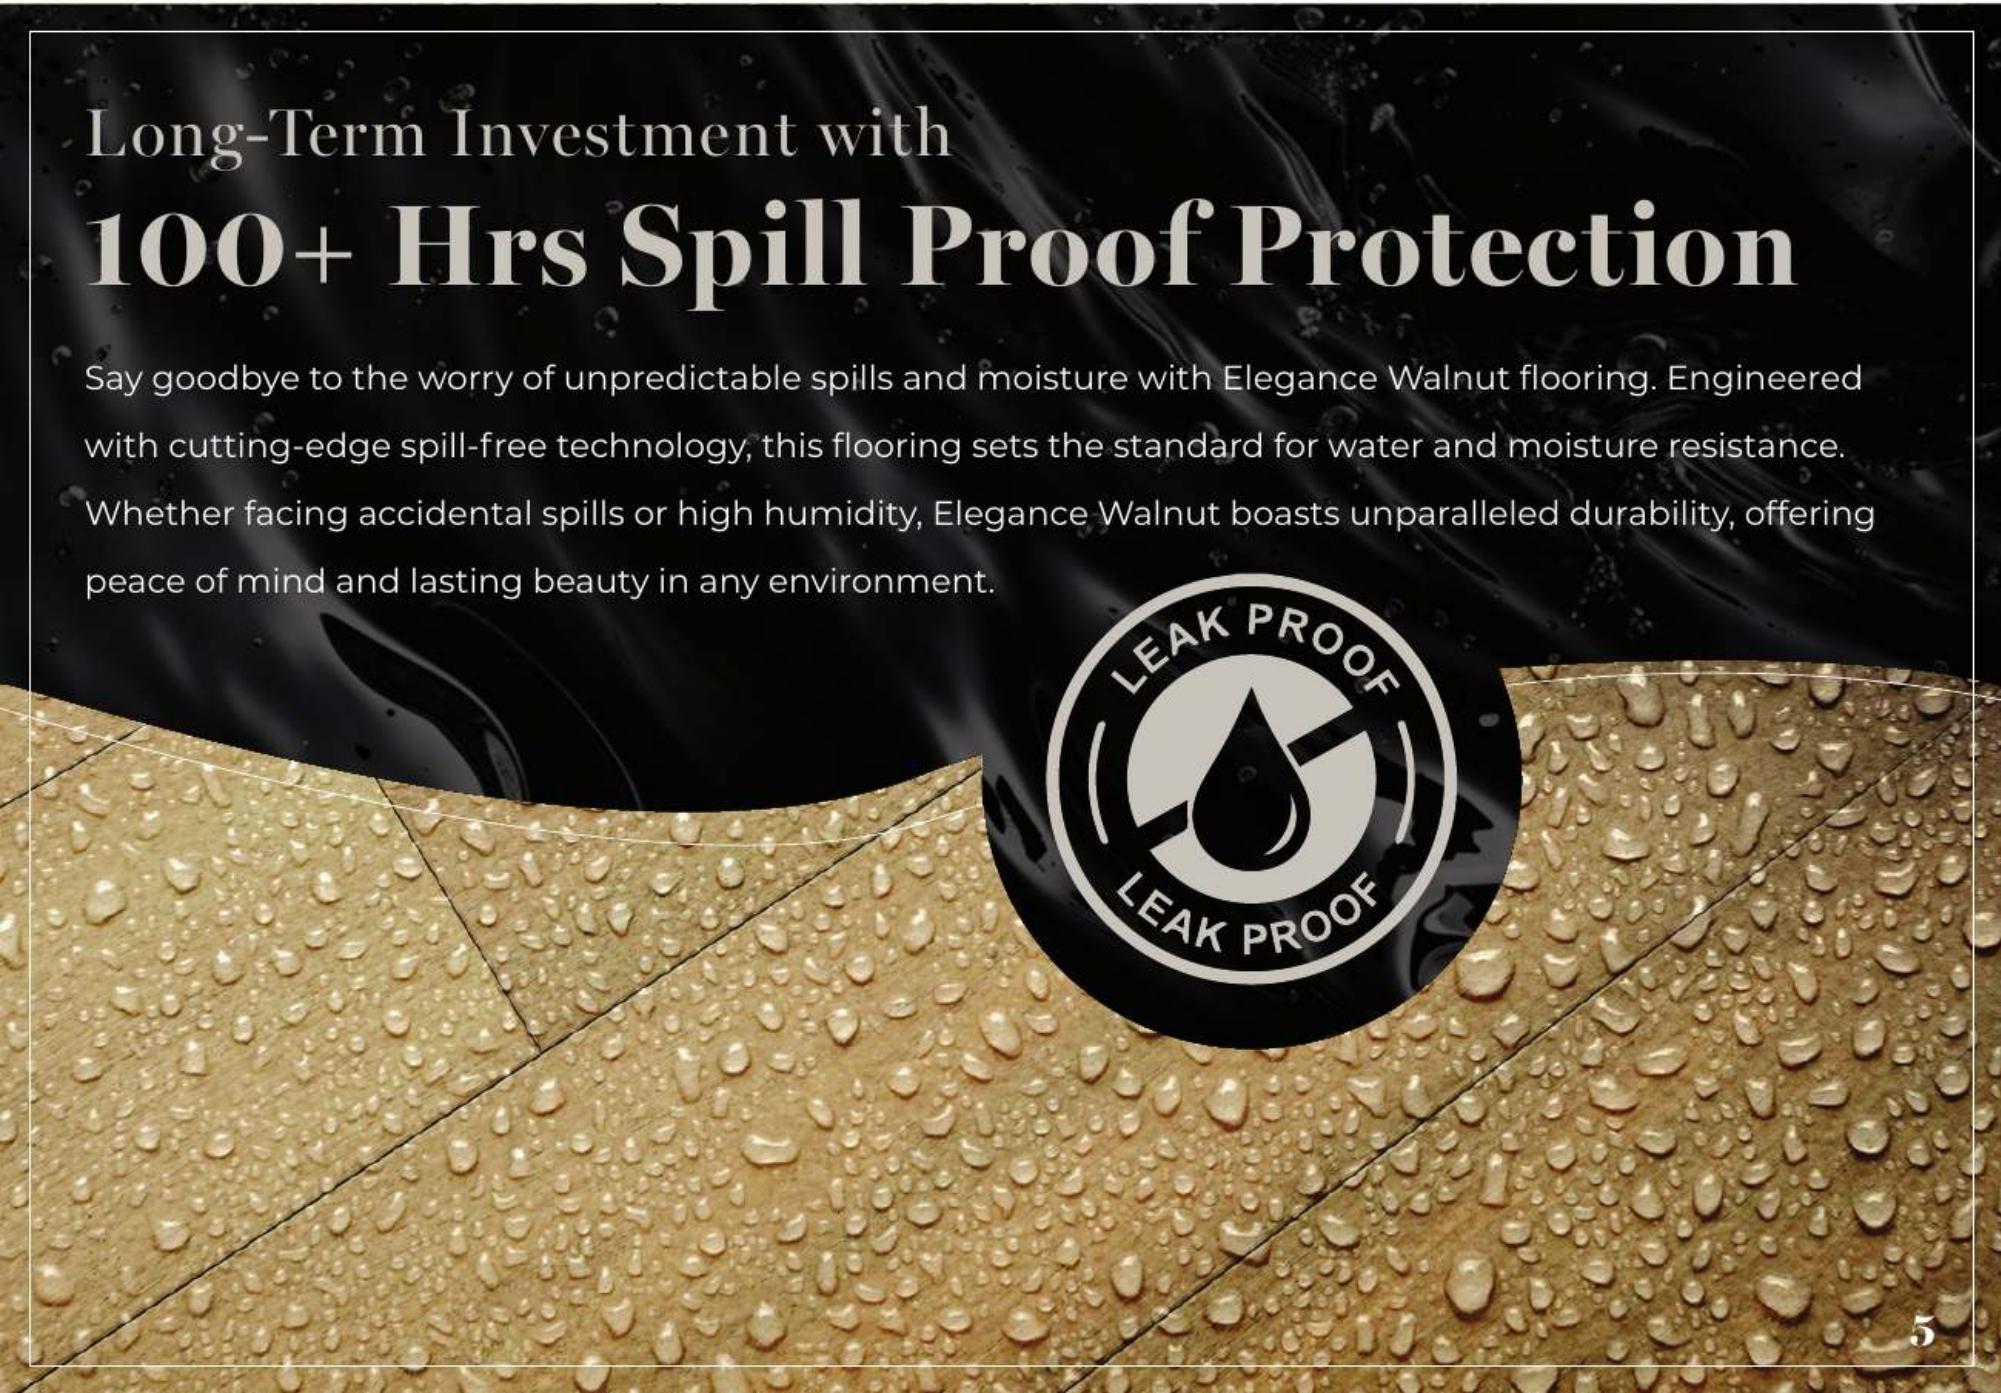

Elegance Walnut hybrid laminate flooring offers exceptional durability, making it an ideal choice for high-traffic areas. The core contains carbon fiber, which significantly enhances its strength and stability. This flooring is not only tough and scratch-resistant, thanks to its robust wear layer, but also germ-free, offering a hygienic solution for busy households.
